To the Honorable the Legislature:

The Bureau of Labor Market Information, Division of Employment and Training Policy is pleased to share with you an analysis of public and private sector wages in Wisconsin entitled the 1988 Wisconsin Wage Survey Public vs Private Sector Wages: A Comparison, Technical Report. This technical report is based on the data collected in the 1988 Wisconsin Wage Survey.

The Bureau has seen a demand for analysis of the wage data with a particular emphasis on a comparison between public and private wages and has responded by preparing the attached report.

One question that can be answered by this report is "What would the State Government wage structure be if it paid the wages as other industry sectors?"

HIGHLIGHTS

When Private Industry with 250 employees is compared with State Government, it shows that Private Industry with 250 employees pays 4.1 percent or 45 cents per hour less than State Government.

If All Private Industry wages are compared to State Government wages, the data shows that All Private Industry pays 11.2 percent or $1.15 less per hour than State Government.

A Comparison between Local Government and School Districts, and State Government shows that Local Government and School Districts pay 2.7 percent or 30 cents per hour less than state.

A closer examination of the data shows a very different picture. The different industry sectors vary greatly at the occupational grouping level. The data show that State Government has a compressed wage structure when compared to another comparably sized industry. When State Government is compared to Private Industry with 250 employees, the data shows that management and supervisory, professional, and fiscal wages in Private Industry with 250 employees are as much as 7.2 percent higher than State Government. Other occupational grouping such as patient care, technical, clerical, crafts, and blue collar are paid as much as 26.3 percent higher in State Government.

Included in the report are four tables comparing wages of Private Industry with 250 Employees, All Private Industry, Local Government and School Districts, and State Government.

The Bureau of Labor Market Information believes that this analysis provides valuable insights into the question of public and private sector wages in the State of Wisconsin. We hope you will find the data interesting and useful.

Should you need any further information or have any questions regarding this report please contact Jim Jackson of the State Bureau of Labor Market Information at 608/266-5843.

Sincerely,
JUNE M. SUHLING
