Secretary of State

State of Wisconsin
Department of Natural Resources

June 19, 1989

To the Honorable the Legislature:

Wisconsin's Acid Rain Bill, 1985 Wisconsin Act 296, (Sec. 144.389, Wis. Stats.), requires the Department of Natural Resources to:

1. Conduct a study to determine the most cost effective method for reducing nitrogen oxide emissions in the state, and
2. Prepare a report on the environmental effects of nitrogen oxide emissions, and recommendations for achieving nitrogen oxide emission reductions.

This letter is to advise you of the status of the report.

The Study was to have been completed by July 1, 1988 and the report was due to the Governor and Chief Clerks of each house of the legislature by January 1, 1989.

I gave notice in a letter to you dated December 9, 1988, that due to unavoidable delays, the submittal date for completion of the Study was moved up to the April 1, 1989 and the date for submittal of the Report was moved to July 1, 1989. It now appears that there will be further delay.

The statute requires that a Cost Study be undertaken which:

1. Determines the amount of nitrogen oxide emissions in the state.
2. Investigates and determines the costs of specific types of available nitrogen oxide emission control options.
3. Investigates the possible effects on sulfur oxide emissions resulting from implementing nitrogen oxide controls.
4. Investigates the interaction between sulfur dioxide emissions from stationary sources and the potential for permitting a stationary source an increased level of either type of emission in exchange for reducing the other type.

The draft of a report on items 1 and 2 above, part of the Cost Study, was received from the contractor around the middle of January, 1989; a final report from the contractor has still not been received. Additional work is now underway on items 3 and 4 of the Cost Study (with the cooperation and assistance of Wisconsin's utilities and the Public Service Commission, as suggested in the statute) based on the contractor's draft report: completion is not expected until January 1, 1990.

Work on the Report to the Governor and the legislature has begun but completion is now targeted for April 1, 1990. This is due to the delay in the completion of the Cost Study and the need to conduct a public hearing (with a concomitant 30-day public comment period).

Thank you for your patience on this matter. We will continue to keep all of the involved parties informed of our progress.

Sincerely,
C. D. BESADNY
Secretary
