Juvenile participation in programm	ing of a youth report center

Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

This bill permits a juvenile court to require certain juveniles to report to a youth report center.

If a youth report center were located in a public school, and if a school district were responsible for operating it, a district would likely incur costs related to its operation. These costs would be associated with staffing, heating, lighting and maintaining the center. Because it is unknown how many youth report centers would be established, if these centers would be located in public schools, and if public school districts would be responsible for operating these report centers, the local fiscal effect of this bill is indeterminate.

If school districts were able to recover their costs for operating a youth report center, the bill would have no fiscal effect. However, it is unknown if districts will have the ability to recover their costs.
