| Prohibit drilling for oil and gas beneath the Great Lakes | | | | | | | | | | |

Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

Bill Analysis:

This bill prohibits any person from conducting drilling operations for the exploration for or production of oil or gas from beneath the beds of the Great Lakes or adjacent bays and harbors. Under current law, drilling through the beds of the Great Lakes is prohibited, but directional drilling beneath the bed of the Great Lakes is permissible provided the activity is conducted in accordance with all other applicable statutes.

Fiscal Impact:

The proposed legislation would not have any immediate local or state fiscal impacts. Wisconsin does not have any known oil or gas reserves and there have been no proposals to conduct exploration drilling beneath the Great Lakes. Given the lack of a viable oil and gas industry in the state, such a prohibition should result in essentially no fiscal impacts.

Long-Range Fiscal Implications

It is possible that there is an unknown reserve of oil or gas lying somewhere beneath one of the Great Lakes. If this legislation is enacted, development of this resource would be precluded and the State would not collect the royalties and other revenues associated with oil and gas production.
