

Fiscal Estimate Narratives

Description A state minimum wage, permitting the enactment of local living wage ordinances, and granting rule-making authority

Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

SB 1, if enacted into law, would increase Wisconsin's minimum wage for adults in non-agricultural occupations to $7.60 per hour on June 1, 2009 or upon enactment, whichever comes later. The legislation also requires the department to annually adjust the minimum wage rate based upon the cost of living. The legislation further permits local municipalities to establish minimum wage ordinances that set minimum wage rates higher than the state minimum wage rate.

1. Passage of this bill will result in fewer than 20 additional minimum wage complaints filed with the department each year. The department bases this assumption upon its recent experiences with the 2005 and 2006 minimum wage increases where the department raised the state minimum wage above the federal rate. Those increases led to an additional 20 minimum wage complaints per year filed with the department. Since the department annually processes about 4,000 unpaid wage complaints per year the department believes it can absorb the additional workload.

2. The cost of updating the minimum wage rates in the administrative rule, reprinting the new rule and publicizing the new rule will be about $1,500.

3. If local government units choose to employ workers at the minimum wage the cost to employ those workers will increase from $7.25 per hour [the new federal minimum wage as of July 24, 2009] to $7.60 per hour for each adult so employed. For persons under 18 years of age the $6.90 per hour rate provided for in SB 1 will be lower than the federal minimum wage [July 24, 2009 rate] and therefore will have no real impact. The department doesn't have any accurate figures on how many adult minimum wage employees various government units employ.

Long-Range Fiscal Implications

The annual cost of updating the minimum wage will continue to cost the department about $1,500 per year to update the administrative rule, reprint the code and minimum wage wage brochures and to publicize the new rates each year.
