Description the supervised business initiatives program

Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

Current law at s 47.03 (11) requires the Department of Workforce Development to provide a supervised business initiatives program as part of vocational training for individuals with severe disabilities who are eligible for vocational rehabilitation services. Under the program, DWD may own, lease, manage, supervise, or operate businesses for the benefit of participants, with the goal of enabling persons with severe disabilities to operate their own businesses. Current law also requires DWD to promulgate rules to establish a formula for charging a portion of the expense of the supervised business initiatives program to each business operating under the program.

DWD does not currently operate a supervised business initiatives program, and there are no federal Title 1B regulations for DWD's Division of Vocational Rehabilitation that require the provision of supervised business initiative services. DWD assumes the federal regulations will remain the same and that repeal of this provision will not have a fiscal effect.
