An act concerning Timber and Lumber floating upon adjoining waters, and carried upon adjoining lands. Chap 216

THE People of the State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Whenever any logs, timber, boards or planks, in rafts or otherwise, shall be drifted upon any island in any of the waters within this state, or upon the bank or shore of such waters, the owner of such logs, timber or lumber may, at any time within one year, remove the same, on paying or tendering to the owner or occupant of the land such reasonable damages as may be caused by reason of such removal, and if the owner shall not, within the said year, make such payment or tender, and take such logs, timber or lumber from such lands, unless he and the owner or occupant of such lands shall otherwise agree, the same shall be deemed the property of such owner or occupant of the lands.

Lumber drifting on to lands, &c.

Sec. 2. Whoever shall unlawfully cut out, alter or destroy any mark of the owner made on the logs, timber or lumber put into any lake, river, stream, or pond, shall forfeit a sum not exceeding ten dollars for each log, stick of timber, or piece of lumber, the mark of which he shall have so altered, cut out or destroyed, and shall be liable to the party injured, in three times the amount of damages.

Penalty for altering mark

Sec. 3. In any suit under the provisions of the preceding section, if such logs, timber or lumber shall be found in the possession of the defendant, with the marks cut out, altered or destroyed, it shall be considered presumptive evidence of his guilt, and the burden of proof shall be upon him to discharge himself.

Possession presumptive evidence of guilt.

Sec. 4. Whoever shall convert to his own use, without the consent of the owner thereof, any logs, timber, boards or planks, floating in any of the waters of this state, or lying on the banks

Damages for conversion.
