CHAPTER 594.

AN ACT to amend 205.20 of the statutes, relating to workmen's compensation insurance rates in certain cases.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

205.20 of the statutes is amended to read:

205.20 No company shall make or charge any rate for workmen's compensation insurance in this state which discriminates unfairly between risks or classes, or which discriminates unfairly between risks in the application of like charges and credits in the plan of schedule or merit rating in use; and no company shall discriminate by granting to any employer insurance against other hazards except in accordance with its rates and rating plans filed and which are in effect for said company as provided in sections 203.32 or 204.38 to 204.55 or at less than its regular rates for such insurance if such sections are inapplicable, or otherwise.

Approved August 2, 1949.
