Subchapter I — General Provisions

DOC 373.01 Authority and purpose. In this chapter, the department seeks to achieve all of the following:

(1) To provide for the degree of confinement and programming for each youth required for the protection of the public, staff and youth.

(2) To operate orderly institutions.

(3) To deter each youth from committing further delinquent acts.

(4) To provide a uniform disciplinary process for all institutions which enhances the constructive, individualized programming for youth by doing all of the following:

(a) Giving each youth prior notice of all conduct rules that apply to the youth.

(b) Describing all conduct rules in clear, unambiguous language.

(c) Describing all forms of discipline allowable for violations of the conduct rules.

(d) Structuring the exercise of discretion by staff in responding to youth misconduct while retaining flexibility in decision-making and preserving fairness.

(f) Provide for routine review of the restrictions placed on a youth to assure that the restrictions are appropriately based on the seriousness of violations by the youth; the youth's subsequent behavior; and the risk posed by the youth to self, others or institution security.

DOC 373.07 Attempted violation of conduct rules.

(1) A youth is guilty of an attempt to violate a conduct rule if all of the following are true:

(a) The youth intended to do something that would have been a conduct rule violation.

(b) The youth committed an act that demonstrated intent to violate a conduct rule.

(2) The penalty for an attempt to violate a conduct rule is the same as the penalty for violating that conduct rule.

(3) A youth may be charged with both a substantive conduct rule violation and with an attempt to commit that conduct rule violation, based on the same incident, but may be found guilty of only one.

History: Cr. Register, June, 2000, No. 534, eff. 7-1-00.

(2) INVOLUNTARY INTOXICATION. At the time of the conduct, the youth, as a result of involuntary intoxication, lacked substantial capacity either to appreciate the wrongfulness of the conduct or to conform to the conduct rules. This subsection does not afford a defense if the intoxicant was taken voluntarily, unless the intoxicant was taken consistent with a proper prescription.

(3) MISTAKE. The youth honestly erred and the error negates the existence of a state of mind essential to the conduct rule violation.

(4) SELF-DEFENSE. A youth may use the minimum amount of force necessary to prevent death or bodily injury to self or in defending a third person. A youth may not continue to exercise self-defense after an order by staff to stop. In determining whether the minimum force was used in exercising self-defense, staff shall consider:

(a) Whether the aggressor used a weapon.

(b) The size of the youth invoking a self-defense claim in relation to the size of the aggressor.

(c) The opportunity of the youth who claims self-defense to flee or to obtain assistance from staff.

(d) Whether staff were nearby.

(5) ORDERS. A youth may disobey a conduct rule when expressly authorized to disobey it by staff.

(2) Restitution may be imposed in addition to or in lieu of any major penalty.

If the conduct rule violation has not been disposed of summarily in accordance with s. DOC 373.68, a supervisor shall decide whether the alleged violation shall be treated as a major conduct rule violation. In deciding whether an alleged violation should be treated as a major conduct rule violation, the supervisor shall consider all of the following criteria and shall indicate in the record of disciplinary action the reason for the decision based on these criteria:

- (a) Whether the youth has previously been found guilty of the same or a similar conduct rule violation, how often a finding of guilt has been established, and how recently.
- (b) Whether the youth has recently been warned about the same or similar conduct.

No youth may be found to have committed both an act and its lesser-included act based upon the same incident. Table 373-A lists the lesser-included conduct rule violations of each conduct rule violation.

The accused shall receive a written copy of the decision, the finding on each charge, the reasons and the disposition.

(3) The disciplinary hearing shall be held no sooner than one day and no later than 14 days after service of an approved conduct report alleging the violation. This period may be enlarged or diminished if the superintendent approves and the youth agrees.
