Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, in an action affecting the family, such as a divorce, if there is a minor child and the parties do not agree on legal custody or physical placement, the parties must be referred to mediation to attempt to resolve the contested issues. The court may order a person or entity designated by the county to conduct a legal custody or physical placement study to investigate such issues as the conditions of the child's home, the parties' performance of parental duties, and whether either party has engaged in domestic abuse. The report that results from the study is submitted to the court, made available to the parties, and made a part of the record of the action unless the court orders otherwise. This substitute amendment requires that the report be submitted to the parties at least ten days before it is introduced into evidence, that it be offered and received in accordance with the rules of evidence, and that it not be submitted to the court before it is introduced into evidence.
