Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, authorized emergency vehicles include police vehicles, fire department vehicles, and ambulances. When the operator of an authorized emergency vehicle is responding to an emergency call or in pursuit of an actual or suspected violator of the law, the operator is exempt from traffic restrictions relating to speed, traffic signals, and direction of travel if the operator activates the vehicle's warning lights and siren, but he or she must drive with due regard under the circumstances for the safety of all persons. The operator is also exempt from traffic restrictions relating to parking if the operator activates the vehicle's warning lights.

Also under current law, ambulance operators are not required to participate in or complete any specialized driver training program.

This bill requires the Department of Health Services (DHS) to establish and administer an ambulance operator safety program for operators of ambulances that are either publicly owned or are privately owned and authorized by the sheriff or county board as emergency vehicles. DHS must provide a safety course to operators of ambulances and must certify a person who successfully completes an ambulance operator safety course. By rule, DHS, in consultation with an advisory committee, must establish safety standards for ambulance operators, establish certification and recertification periods for ambulance operators, establish a curriculum for ambulance operator safety courses that includes classroom instruction and actual practice driving an ambulance accompanied by an instructor, and set other requirements. DHS must inform ambulance owners of the certification requirements, certification process, and safety standards.

DHS may certify a driver school or a technical college to conduct the ambulance operator safety course and may enter into a contract with a certified driver school or certified technical college to administer the course to ambulance operators. DHS may inspect the certified driver school or certified technical college to determine compliance with the contract and may terminate the ambulance operator safety course or recover damages if the driver school or technical college is not complying with the law or the contract.

Also under this bill, for the authorized emergency vehicle exemption from traffic restrictions to apply, the operator of an ambulance must be currently certified by the Department of Transportation.
