Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, whenever a person receives payment from another person, in cash or in-kind, for the direct or indirect cost of conducting a poll concerning support or opposition to a candidate, political party or referendum, the person conducting the poll must, upon request of the person who is polled, disclose the name and address of the person making payment for the poll and, in the case of a registrant under the Wisconsin campaign finance law, the name of the treasurer of the person making payment.

This bill provides that any such person who conducts such a poll must disclose this information to the person who is polled regardless of whether a request for the information is made and before making any other communication with the person who is polled.

Violations are punishable by a forfeiture (civil penalty) of not more than $500 for each offense. Intentional violations are punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than 6 months, or both, for each offense (a misdemeanor).
