Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Current law provides penalties for various sex offenses. The current penalties include periods of imprisonment in a jail or the state prisons. In addition, a court may currently place a person convicted of a sex offense on probation, except that in certain cases involving repeat offenders a court must impose a prison sentence and may not place the repeat offender on probation.

This bill provides that if a person is convicted of certain felony sex offenses, the court must sentence the person to at least one year in prison and may not place the person on probation. The felony sex offenses covered by the bill include the following: sexual exploitation by a therapist; sexual assault; sexual assault of a child; sexual exploitation of a child; causing a child to view or listen to sexual activity; incest with a child; child enticement; soliciting a child for prostitution; sexual assault of a student by a school instructional staff person; exposing a child to harmful material or harmful descriptions or narrations; possession of child pornography; and working with children after being convicted of a serious child sex offense.
